Summer

Students may take up to seven hours in the William Woods summer session, which begins the Monday after the spring semester ends in May. Online and face-to-face courses are offered. The summer schedule is available before fall registration begins in late March and typically includes multiple General Education and elective courses.

You may take courses elsewhere during the summer and transfer them back to WWU. Up to 70 hours from community colleges (and 90 hours total) may be accepted in transfer toward a WWU degree. If you plan on taking summer courses elsewhere, please note the following:

1. Contacting the Registrar’s office before you register for summer courses will let you know how those courses would transfer.

2. Your final 30 credits must be taken at William Woods to satisfy the university’s residency requirement.

3. Most financial aid packages pertain to single institutions, so you are unlikely to receive that aid for summer courses elsewhere. Check with Student Financial Services for details.
